TOEFL Junior test scores are available for reporting for 2 years after the test date. Because English-language proficiency can change rapidly depending on additional learning or development since the time of testing, decisions involving scores will be most valid when scores are obtained close to the point at which the decisions are made. Institutions can choose to use scores that are more than 2 years old as a record of an individual's English-language proficiency at the time the test was taken.

*The CEFR levels provided are context dependent. They are based on the language abilities of middle-school students and lower-level high school students. They should not be compared to the CEFR levels on other TOEFL® tests.
